Dear ACG alumni and friends,

One of the most enjoyable things about my role as President of The American College of Greece is the opportunity to meet and learn about alumni. Over the past six years I have been privileged to meet ACG alumni all over the world in places such as Dubai, the UK, the United States and of course Greece. I am continually struck by the accomplishments and success of PIERCE, DERE, and ALBA alumni, by their ambition, their willingness to start new careers and businesses in unfamiliar places, and the way they fearlessly take on challenges that would cause others to hesitate. The Alumni Achievement Awards represent an important way for the College to recognize examples of this collective success by honoring a few of our remarkable alumni. I hope that all alumni take pride in these awards, for although we cannot recognize every achievement, this event serves to shine a light on the tremendous record of the alumni body as a whole.

Please join me, fellow alumni, members of the senior administration and faculty, trustees, current students and honored guests as we celebrate the 2014 Alumni Achievement Awards and recognize alumni whose accomplishments bring honor to their alma mater.

2014 Alumni Achievement Awards

Supporting Excellence

Organized by The American College of Greece (ACG), the ACG Alumni Achievement Awards serve a dual purpose: to recognize the achievements of ACG alumni and to support the ACG Scholarship Fund.

Today, ACG honors prominent PIERCE, DERE, and ALBA alumni, who have distinguished themselves in various domains of society. Award categories include: Arts and Culture, Business, Education, Entrepreneurship: Rising Star, Philanthropy and Community Service, Sciences, and The Maria West Lifetime Achievement. ACG will also honor one individual for promoting Hellenism and one corporation or foundation for its contribution to education.

We welcome you in celebrating the accomplishments of ACG alumni as well as individuals and organizations making a difference in society.

We invite you to join us in supporting excellence!

SPECIAL COMMEMORATION

Avraam Albert Arouh, DERE '73

Professor Emeritus, DERE - The American College of Greece

Avraam Albert Arouh (1950-2014) served The American College of Greece as a faculty member of Economics for 33 years, molding the personalities of thousands of students among which he was considered a mentor. During his career he researched many subjects ranging from public finance and economic development to labor economics and comparative economics. In 2012 he retired from his duties as Professor Emeritus, the second one ever in the history of DERE. He was also a very active member of the DERE community, being advisor to the Economics Society, the Arts Club, the Yearbook Club, the Debating Club and the Film Club. Apart from his academic career, he had an equally prominent career in gastronomy. He was the most renowned Greek restaurant critic, writing under the pen name Epikouros, in major newspapers and magazines. His theoretical and academic background was reflected in his writings where he strived to introduce a philosophical approach to gastronomic matters. He will be remembered for his academic achievements, for his passion to bring out the best in students, and for his outstanding personality. For Albert Arouh didn't just offer his academic mentorship and his gastronomy views; he was teaching a whole new philosophy, the art of living.

COMMITMENT TO EDUCATION AWARD: Presented to a foundation known for consistently demonstrating levels of excellence in supporting educational causes.

ΙΔΡΥΜΑ ΣΤΑΥΡΟΣ ΝΙΑΡΧΟΣ
STAVROS NIARCHOS
FOUNDATION

Stavros Niarchos Foundation is one of the world's leading international philanthropic organizations, funding organizations and projects that exhibit strong leadership and are expected to achieve a broad, lasting and positive impact for society at large. This year the Stavros Niarchos Foundation, through a generous donation, established a scholarship program at DERE– The American College of Greece, for deserving students of the Greek universities to participate in the Parallel Studies program of DERE. Through its initiative “Recharging the Youth”, the Stavros Niarchos Foundation helps create new opportunities for the younger generations of Greece with an innovative program that requires the collaboration and convergence of different sectors including public, private, and philanthropy.

GREEK HERITAGE AWARD: Presented to a prominent member of the Greek diaspora for promoting Hellenism and for spreading the values and culture of Greece in other parts of the world for present and future generations.

George D. Behrakis, President, Behrakis Foundation

George D. Behrakis, Greek American businessman and philanthropist, has made significant and impactful contributions to an impressive number of organizations and has dedicated himself to the promotion of Hellenism, especially knowledge, the arts, and civic responsibility. Mr. Behrakis distinguished himself in the pharmaceutical industry as a researcher and marketer of asthma and allergy products and is the founder of two companies - Dooner Laboratories and Muro Pharmaceutical, Inc. His successful career in pharmaceuticals has been complemented by his support of philanthropic endeavors and in particular the promotion of Hellenism. These efforts include, sponsoring fellowships for Greek physicians, establishing scholarships for students, endowing faculty chairs, promoting the collection of ancient Greek artifacts at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, providing support to the Lowell, Massachusetts community - the first home of many Greek immigrants - and serving on the boards of educational, health, religious, civic and arts organizations. In Greece, Mr. Behrakis has focused his philanthropy on tobacco control and reducing and preventing smoking through educational programs, with an emphasis on young people.

BUSINESS AWARD: Presented to alumni of exceptional leadership skills and creativity who have taken an innovative approach to successfully launch and grow a business, product or service.

Alexandra Pitta-Chazapi, PIERCE '67

Board of Directors Member and Managing Director, Attiki Bee Culturing Co. Alexandros Pittas SA

Employing perseverance, motivating your employees, dreaming and hardworking: These values and continuous pioneering efforts helped Alexandra Pitta-Chazapi develop the family honey producing business into one of the most dynamic and innovative enterprises in the world. Having been chosen as one of the forty most important women entrepreneurs of the world, she continues to manage the Attiki Bee Culturing Company as Vice President of the Board and Managing Director responsible for the Commercial Sector, while she also passes on her business knowledge by mentoring ambitious young women who wish to follow in her footsteps. Alexandra Pitta-Chazapi has not only proved that Greek women have entrepreneurship in their DNA; she has significantly contributed in promoting Greece by offering the world one of the country's most exquisite goods: the Greek honey.

Paris Kafantaris, DERE '80

WE Marketing Vice President, Procter & Gamble

Paris Kafantaris's motto in life is "It's all about winning!" and his achievements are a mere confirmation of his words. After obtaining his Bachelor's degree from DERE and his Master's degree in Business Administration from Hofstra University in New York he joined Procter & Gamble and followed a successful career path to his present position of leading the Marketing Function for Europe. His 30-year career in P&G departments around Europe has demonstrated his extraordinary ability to adjust in a plethora of working environments and to excel in each and every one of these while raising the creativity standard and the market share. He accomplished changing the mindset of a company from marketing products to marketing an experience and he was generously rewarded by the consumers for this strategic innovation. Now the time has come for his alma mater to recognize his achievements too.

Theano Liakopoulou, ALBA '99

Partner, McKinsey & Company

By the time Theano Liakopoulou graduated from the National Technical University of Athens with a diploma in Chemical Engineering, she already knew what excited her the most: making change happen. Her passion to thrive and her will to drive change in a business context motivated her to pursue an MBA degree at ALBA, after which she "engineered" her own outstanding career. She joined McKinsey & Company 14 years ago and became a partner in 2009. Theano is now one of the core leaders of McKinsey's Operations practice in Europe and the lead Partner for the firm's Procurement work in the region. Her work spans beyond the Greek borders; her clients include global organizations in the Pharmaceuticals and Consumer Goods sectors based in Central and Western Europe, while her activity in Greece focuses on industrial players. Her work involves supporting her clients in performance improvement efforts across sourcing, supply chain and manufacturing. Theano also has a strong passion for supporting the growth of talented women in business and she has been leading McKinsey's Women's Initiative in Europe for a number of years.

RISING STAR: ENTREPRENEURSHIP AWARD: Presented to alumni who have been broadly recognized as exceptional young entrepreneurs with a proven record of success in starting a business or enterprise that has introduced an innovative or unique product or service to the market.

Antonios Fiorakis, DERE '07

Co-Founder and CEO, incrediblue.com

How did Antonios Fiorakis make it to the "40 under 40 Greek Entrepreneurs" list of the Greek Fortune Magazine? It's not incredible, it's incrediblue! This is the name of the start-up boat rental company that made him stand out as one of the youngest successful Greek entrepreneurs. His business idea of creating a boat rental platform did not come out of the blue though; his studies and work experience in a variety of fields helped him develop his management skills and the acute sense to recognize business opportunity. After graduating from DERE with a Management major, Antonios obtained his Master's degree from IE Business School and worked at Beiersdorf and JTI before creating incrediblue.com, a start-up that received €600,000 from the Jeremie Openfund II. Being a CEO and co-founder of a successful start-up at the age of 30, he now has the wind beneath his sails towards his future achievements!

Ioannis Arabatzis, ALBA '05

Founder and Managing Director, Nanophos SA

Ioannis Arabatzis, at the age of 37, has already proved that a good idea and a solid education are the sole ingredients of the recipe to success. After obtaining his Bachelor's degree in Chemistry, he continued his academic enrichment with a Ph.D. in Chemical Engineering from the National Technical University of Athens and an MBA from ALBA. He then managed to incorporate his academic knowledge and science skills into a robust business plan to create an innovative nanotechnology enterprise. Today, NanoPhos SA is manufacturing products in Greece that capture the market worldwide. Dr. Arabatzis, as the managing director and founder of the company feels proud to serve his dream by dedicating himself in transferring technology into everyday applications. Dr. Arabatzis excels in setting the foundations for a new technological field to flourish but above all he contributes in introducing a new era of outstanding accomplishments for Greece.

SCIENCES AWARD: Presented to an alumnus/a who is dedicated to the advancement of technological, scientific or industrial discovery and helps create opportunities for current and future generations.

Athena Andreadis, PIERCE '73

Scientist, science ambassador, writer, editor

Athena Andreadis is a molecular biologist, distinguished both for her scientific achievements and her creative talent. After graduating from PIERCE, Athena Andreadis started working on her long list of accomplishments. She earned her BA (magna cum laude) from Harvard University and her Ph.D. in Molecular Biology from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. During her 30-year academic career she fulfilled many roles, from extensive basic research on brain function to mentoring scientists at all stages of their academic careers and from presenting science to NASA engineers to making the universe comprehensible to science fiction authors. Until mid-2013 she was Associate Professor of Cell Biology at the University of Massachusetts Medical School; she is a published author of popular science books (To Seek Out New Life: The Biology of Star Trek) and of prose and poetry; she is also the engine behind The Other Half of the Sky, an anthology of original space opera that changed the landscape of science fiction. Her research has contributed significantly to understanding the genetic regulatory mechanism responsible for dementia, while her writings on science and speculative fiction introduce the wonders of the universe to broader audiences, illuminating the beauty and power of science. "Every great advance in science has issued from a new audacity of the imagination" said John Dewey, and Athena Andreadis proves the saying with every article, novel and book of hers!

ARTS AND CULTURE AWARD: Presented to the alumnus/a who has made an impact on society through her/his commitment to the arts and/or culture.

Evita Arapoglou, PIERCE '74

Art Historian and Author

The art historian Evita Arapoglou has dedicated her life and work in studying and diving deep into the realm of the 19th and 20th century Greek Art. After graduating from PIERCE she studied at University College and King's College, University of London. In 1989 she wrote her book on the A.G. Leventis Collection of Greek paintings of the 19th and 20th century and since 1994 she is Curator of the collection of the A. G. Leventis Foundation. Her comprehensive catalog of the Greek Collection was published in 2012 while for the past seven years she was involved in the preparation of the new Leventis Gallery in Nicosia. Her deep knowledge of art and dedication to it brought her working close to Nikos Hadjikyriakos-Ghikas involving her in exhibitions of his works -such as in the Royal Academy of Arts in London and the Benaki Museum- while her tribute to him was presented at the Academy of Athens, the Hellenic American Union, the Reading Society and elsewhere. Her book "Ghika: Drawings" was one of her earlier works while "3, Kriezotou Street" is a remarkable book on the artist's home and his work. She has written on various subjects such as on Art and Artists in Corfu and on Yannis Moralis and Mont Parnes. She has lectured extensively and curated exhibitions in Greece, Cyprus and the United Kingdom, one of her most recent ones being a major exhibition at the National Gallery in Athens of the Leventis Foundation Collections. She is currently vice-chairman of the Katakouzinos Foundation, member of the Honorary Board of the Leventis Gallery, board member of the Centre of the Asia Minor Studies, of the Society for the Environment and Cultural Heritage, and of the Hellenic National Commission for UNESCO. Through her commitment to Greek art, she has not just promoted Hellenism by "curating" its exhibition to the world but she has also helped create an "ark of culture", treasuring and rescuing a most valuable part of the Greek heritage.

EDUCATION AWARD: Presented to an alumnus/alumna who has dedicated her/his life to the education of young people, and who promotes modern teaching practices and innovation in classrooms in Greece or abroad.

Aris Stouraitis, DERE '88

Professor, Department of Finance and Decision Sciences, Hong Kong Baptist University

Aris Stouraitis wished for a job that would never be too far away from a football pitch. Gladly enough, most university campuses have pitches; gladly enough, that's not his only wish to come true during his fruitful academic career. After graduating from DERE with a Bachelor's degree in Economics and Accounting & Finance, he obtained his M.Sc. in Management from INSEAD (France) and continued on to receive his Ph.D. in Finance from Imperial College London (United Kingdom). Today, he is Professor at the Department of Finance and Decision Sciences and Director of the Center for Corporate Governance and Financial Policy at the Hong Kong Baptist University. His research in corporate finance has been published in various international academic journals while he has participated in academic conferences organized by prestigious institutions, such as Harvard Business School and European Finance Association. His work has been quoted in magazines and newspapers such as The Economist and the German Handelsblatt. However, in between teaching corporate restructuring and attending conferences, he still drops by the campus football pitch; and there is no doubt that he is an achiever in that field too.

PHILANTHROPY AND COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD: Presented to an alumnus/alumna who is a leader in philanthropy and service to philanthropic causes, and who has made a substantive difference in society.

Ourania Kli-Efremoglou, PIERCE UPPER 1952 & 1954
President, Foundation of the Hellenic World

Ourania Kli-Efremoglou has been acquainted with the idea of giving from a very early age. Right after graduating from PIERCE, she provided her voluntary services for 10 years to YWCA Athens (HEN Athinon) and Volunteer Association (Omilos Ethelonton). After their son's birth, she and her husband decided to make their family even bigger by creating a foster home for girls in state custody. After their grandchildren's birth they gave back by equipping hospitals and helping orphanages in every corner of Greece. The Greek culture has always served as an inspiration and a motive for the Efremoglou family to keep on offering. In 1993, Ourania Kli-Efremoglou and her husband established the Foundation of the Hellenic World, with the mission to preserve and disseminate Hellenic history and culture. The Foundation has also established a Cultural Center and Museum, the "Hellenic Cosmos", a hub of cultural activities, theatrical performances and museum exhibitions with high educational value. Ourania Kli-Efremoglou has made the difference by giving unconditionally and devoting herself wholeheartedly to community service. Today, The American College of Greece feels obliged and honored to give back, presenting her with the Philanthropy and Community Service award and a warm "thank you" on behalf of the whole Greek society.

MARIA WEST LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT: Established as a tribute to the founder of The American College of Greece, this award is presented to an outstanding individual who has achieved significant accomplishments through dedication to a field of endeavor, and who honors the principles of ACG: commitment to excellence and service to the community.

Marianna V. Vardinoyannis, DERE '03
Goodwill Ambassador of UNESCO,
Founder and President of ELPIDA

Marianna V. Vardinoyannis is a woman deeply committed to offering in any way possible. Her multifaceted work in Greece and abroad focuses on important social issues such as human rights, children's health and protection, social solidarity, education, peace, dialogue among civilizations, sustainable development, etc. Among her various humanitarian activities, she is Founder and President of the Association of Friends of Children with Cancer "ELPIDA", proving daily that science and social concern can enhance and change the lives of sick children and fill them with hope for the future. Thanks to her and to the work of ELPIDA Association, more than 700 children from Greece and the Mediterranean region suffering from cancer were given a new chance of life. She created the first Bone Marrow Transplant Unit in Greece in 1993, the first Pediatric Oncology Hospital "Marianna V. Vardinoyannis-ELPIDA" in 2010, and the Bone Marrow Donor Bank "Orama Elpidas" in 2014. In 1997, she found the "Marianna V. Vardinoyannis Foundation" with important educational, cultural and humanitarian action. Since 1999, she is a UNESCO Goodwill Ambassador. She also serves as a Board member of several international organizations like Bibliotheca Alexandrina and collaborates with many others. She has been widely recognized and awarded for her achievements. Today, the American College of Greece awards her not only for her dedication to giving but also for her serving as an exemplary role model for our students and an inspiration for the future generations.

Supporting our Students

Providing financial assistance to students striving for a high-quality education is a vital part of the mission The American College of Greece serves. Therefore, net proceeds from the 2014 Alumni Achievement Awards event will support the ACG Scholarship Fund to assist deserving PIERCE, DEREЕ and ALBA students. In 2013-14, 1,420 (37%) of ACG (PIERCE, DEREЕ, ALBA) students received more than 3€ million in need-based financial aid and scholarships.

SCHOLARSHIP DONORS

"I wanted to further ACG's historic mission of providing an American style education to deserving Greek students. Establishing an endowed scholarship fund has provided this benefit not only to the current recipients but also to those who will follow. What a satisfying return on our investment!"

*Peter Thun, ACG Trustee Emeritus,
Chairman/CEO Thun Holdings Inc., Liverpool,
New York, US*

"The future of Greece and of Greek businesses is dependent on competitiveness, which in turn demands talented and well-trained young people with fresh ideas and international exposure and experience."

*AB Vassilopoulos
Kostas Macheras, Executive Vice President and Chief Executive Officer of Southeastern Europe & Asia
at Delhaize Group and Chief Executive Officer of AB Vassilopoulos*

"Thinking that some fellow humans will benefit from these scholarships in order to further their potential makes me feel useful as a person."

Ioanna Arvanitis, DERE & PIERCE Parent, Athens, Greece

"Establishing a scholarship to help students is an investment in the future that will profit everyone. I can think of no greater gift."

Vassilios Katsos, PIERCE 1991, President, Pharmathen

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

PIERCE

"My parents couldn't afford the expenses of a highly qualified school such as PIERCE. Thanks to the scholarship fund, I was able to successfully complete my studies. I owe very much, almost everything about my education, to PIERCE."

*Anna Benaki, PIERCE 1952, Athens, Greece
Member of the Academy of Athens,
Professor Emeritus of Criminal Law,
University of Athens,
Minister and Former President of the Greek Parliament*

DEREE

"In the past few years, the only thing certain has been financial uncertainty ahead, so this scholarship provides me with the much needed comfort and reassurance that I can complete my degree. The Propeller Club Scholarship is the "lifeboat" that will carry me to the final "port" of graduation despite the growing financial roadblocks my family is faced with. It is people like you that make it possible for students who are willing but not always able to progress in higher education and their subsequent life goals."

*Ellie Martin, Propeller Club
Scholarship Recipient,
Academic Year 2013-2014*

"...This particular gift was not merely financial support. It stands as an act of unconditional help given to me at a time of crisis. It stands as the additional incentive needed in my continuous effort to expand my knowledge, values and ideals through which I can evolve and flourish in post graduate life and the competitive environment of tomorrow..."

*Philip Doros Keranis, DERE 2012,
N. Demos Foundation Scholarship
for Communication Studies,
Academic Year 2011-2012*
