(Updated Spring 2014)

PREREQUISITES: WP 1010 Introduction to Academic Writing
                WP 1111 Integrated Academic Writing and Ethics

CATALOG DESCRIPTION: A theme-based approach to drama, with emphasis on the ways in which cultural and theoretical contexts shape literary techniques and performance traditions.

RATIONALE: This theme-based course aims to introduce students to the development of drama as a literary and performance genre. Using a variety of texts displaying different aesthetic, cultural, and theoretical backdrops, the course aims to combine theory, textual analysis and performance studies in order to provide students with a holistic appreciation of the evolution of theater.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: Upon successful completion of this course, students should be able to:

1. Acquire an understanding of the development of theater from classical traditions to postmodern dramaturgy;
2. Demonstrate sound knowledge and understanding of the drama genre through the lens of a specific theme;
3. Display awareness of theater as text, theory, and performance;
4. Use critical skills to respond to texts, theory, and performance;
5. Identify stylistic differences and similarities among a variety of plays.

METHOD OF TEACHING AND LEARNING: Teaching and learning strategies include:

- Lectures, class discussions, workshop-style pair work and group work during class meetings;
- A student-centered classroom which allows students to critically engage with a variety of texts and relate theory to practice;
EN 2244 PERSPECTIVES ON DRAMA

- Formative exercises and other learning tasks assigned to help students acquire confidence and benefit from independent study;
- Timely instructor feedback on assignments;
- Additional print and audiovisual educational material posted on the Blackboard course template;
- Other relevant educational material placed on reserve in the library;
- Individualized assistance during office hours for further discussion of lecture material, additional reading, assignments and examinations;
- Close collaboration with Librarian and Writing Center Coordinator to encourage students’ effective use of academic support services.
