| CATALOG DESCRIPTION: | Economic and financial aspects of sustainability. Sustainable financial products and markets. Sustainable investments, effective financial valuation and effective risk assessment. |
| RATIONALE: | The financial sector of the economy plays a key role in addressing environmental, social, and governance challenges. This course provides knowledge that is useful to future business and economics professionals exploring questions around why and how to choose sustainable finance solutions over conventional investment, as well as how sustainable financial engagement fits with an organization's broader strategy. Theory, empirical data, and policy are combined to explain the sustainability challenges for investment and to illustrate how finance can steer funding to certain companies and projects without sacrificing return, thus fostering the transition to a sustainable economy. Students acquaint themselves with skills and tools for applying the sustainable finance mechanisms to a real-world policy or business context. |
| LEARNING OUTCOMES: | As a result of taking this course, students should be able to: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Demonstrate understanding of sustainability challenges.2. Demonstrate understanding of sustainable financial products and market participants.3. Apply economics and finance metrics to assess the viability of solutions for sustainability.4. Discuss the impact of environmental, social and governance factors on valuation and pricing for investment and lending decisions. |
| METHOD OF TEACHING AND LEARNING: | In congruence with the teaching and learning strategy of the college, the following tools are used: <ul style="list-style-type: none">➤ Class lectures.➤ In-class discussion of real examples and cases that aim to enhance students' critical and analytical skills.➤ Guest lectures by invited scholars and professionals.➤ Office hours: students are encouraged to make full use of the office hours of their instructor.➤ Use of Blackboard learning platform. |
