CATALOG DESCRIPTION:

Identification and examination of key emerging markets. Focus on business opportunities inherent in them and their role in the world economy and world trade. Detailed insight into the operating environment of emerging markets.

RATIONALE:

Emerging markets play an increasingly important role in the world economy and constitute very lucrative consumer markets and investment sites for international business. Future managers need to have a solid understanding of the operating environment in emerging markets and related business opportunities and risks. Students will become familiar with major emerging markets, including China, India, Vietnam, and Saudi Arabia.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

- As a result of taking this course, the student should be able to:
1. Explain the importance of emerging markets for the world economy and international business.
 2. Examine the key elements of the operating environment of the major emerging markets and their implications for international business.
 3. Assess business opportunities and risks in emerging markets and recommend appropriate strategies for exploiting these opportunities.

METHOD OF TEACHING AND LEARNING:

- In congruence with the teaching and learning strategy of the college, the following tools are used:
- Class lectures, interactive learning (class discussions, group work) and practical problems solved in class.
 - Office Hours: Students are encouraged to make full use of the office hours of their instructor in order to consult and discuss issues related to the course's content.
 - Use of Blackboard, where instructors post lecture notes, assignments, announcements, as well as additional resources.
