Scholarship Guidelines

Deree – The American College of Greece aims to attract the highest quality graduate applicants regardless of their ability to finance their education. For this reason, Deree offers scholarships, covering a portion of the cost of tuition, to applicants who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance.

In assessing your eligibility for a scholarship the Graduate Financial Aid Committee will consider academic performance and professional experience (if required).

All students receiving a scholarship are expected to maintain a cumulative index (CI) of at least 3.0. If a scholarship recipient’s CI drops below 3.0 at the end of a term, the scholarship is discontinued until the student’s CI reaches 3.0 or above. In that case the student has the obligation to pay the tuition amount corresponding to that period.
