

Create Your Legacy

The American College of Greece

Create your legacy

Founded 145 years ago in Smyrna, Asia Minor, The American College of Greece (ACG) was a small seed planted by courageous and visionary missionary women that despite being violently uprooted and relocated to Greece, managed not only to survive but somehow, against unfavorable odds and in challenging circumstances to flourish. Our founders may not have foreseen this but we are here today because of the direct dedication and generosity of generations of our graduates.

We hope, as you look back, you consider leaving your own personal legacy through a gift to ensure our school continues to adapt and prepare future generations of students for unpredictable and ever-changing global realities.

"What you leave behind is not what is engraved in stone monuments, but what is woven into the lives of others."

Pericles

How to give?

There are creative ways to support ACG through planned giving programs that enhance your estate management/will and take advantage of the tax benefits of giving. You can name one or more of ACG's three distinctive educational divisions: Pierce, Deree, Alba and even a program within each school, as the direct beneficiary of your estate plan gift. We are happy to discuss with you all the options and we recommend that you talk to your tax and estate plan advisor as well.

ACG welcomes planned gifts in the form of a simple bequest provision in your will. Remember you may change your bequest at any time. This is a simple yet powerful way to benefit your estate plan and leave a lasting legacy that benefits your alma mater, the students and the faculty.
