

Master of Science (MS) in Organizational Psychology

Learning Outcomes: Knowledge and Understanding, Cognitive Skills, Practical Skills, Transferable Skills
1. Knowledge and Understanding (outcomes, teaching, assessment):
Outcomes:	1: Synthesize contemporary and relevant theories and practice in organizational psychology. 2: Demonstrate a critical understanding of the research process and its applications in organizational interventions, including research methods, design and interpretation.
Teaching/Learning Methods:	Lectures, cases
Assessment:	Assessed at practicum/capstone or thesis
2. Cognitive Skills (outcomes, teaching, assessment)
Outcomes	1: Critically evaluate complex organizational psychology issues. 2: Synthesize and integrate knowledge and information from the field of psychology and interpret its impact on the working environment.
Teaching/Learning Methods:	Workshops, case studies, discussions, exercises
Assessment:	Assessed at capstone or thesis
3. Practical Skills (outcomes, teaching, assessment)
Outcomes	1: Apply professional skills by designing and proposing workable solutions in the field of organizational psychology based on renowned scientific theories. 2: Employ and evaluate evidence-based assessment techniques and apply appropriate interventions in the working environment.
Teaching/Learning Methods:	Labs, lectures, workshops
Assessment:	Assessed at practicum/capstone or thesis
4. Transferable Skills (outcomes, teaching, assessment)
Outcomes	1: Apply multicultural skills in communicating proposed solutions and in collaborating with diverse audiences. 2: Discuss ethical issues, including aspects of diversity, culture, and social responsibility. 3: Demonstrate appropriate oral and written communication and interpersonal skills.
Teaching/Learning Methods:	Lectures, workshops, exercises, cases studies
Assessment:	Assessed at practicum/capstone or thesis