Create your legacy

You, too, can effect change in the world beyond your lifetime by making a planned gift to The American College of Greece. By including ACG in your estate plan through a will, trust, retirement plan, or life insurance policy you make a meaningful investment in our school and tomorrow's leaders - and gain financial and tax benefits for you and your family.

How to give

We can help you explore the best way to make your legacy gift, and perhaps find a solution that will allow you to do much more than you thought was possible. You can name one or more of ACG's educational divisions - Pierce, Deree, Alba, and even a program within each school - as the direct beneficiary of your estate plan gift.

Recognition - The 1875 Society

Donors who include ACG in their estate plans at any amount become members of the 1875 Society. Benefits of membership include an 1875 Society lapel pin, invitations to exclusive events, and pride in the knowledge that you will be supporting ACG beyond your lifetime.

Mike & Pat Kalogeropoulos

"We are very supportive of the multitude of education-based initiatives developed by the American College in Greece. Education is the gift that keeps on giving. Over the years ACG has adroitly expanded its offerings to meet current and anticipated requirements. These initiatives require funding from a variety of sources. ACG's legacy giving program provides us with the opportunity to support these initiatives in a manner that is tailor-made for us. Planned giving allows us the mechanism and flexibility to support ACG and navigate the financial insecurities that are very real for retirees. We encourage potential donors to consider ACG's legacy giving program as an excellent vehicle to contribute to a most worthy cause."
